

ADVANCED EXPLORATIONS IN PEDIATRIC OSTEOPATHY: INNOVATIVE HEALING APPROACHES TO SUPPORT RAPID CHANGE IN THE CHILD

Course Director: Shawn K. Centers, DO, FACOP
February 21-24, 2019

COURSE DESCRIPTION

A clinically-based pediatric program will be presented, with daily therapeutic interactions between pediatric patients and their caregivers. The didactic portion will focus on relevant anatomy, physiology, conventional and innovative diagnostic and therapeutic approaches, along with their underlying principles and practice. Concepts and practice in patient and family interaction before, during and after treatment, will also be addressed. This is a program to enhance participants' skills, and invigorate their creative thinking in the field of Pediatric Osteopathic care. Clinicians dealing with children are increasingly called upon to advise and treat patients in regards to health approaches not commonly taught in undergraduate medical education. Viola M. Frymann spent most of her adult life investigating and perfecting these topics. The Pediatric Intensive Course explores a theoretical framework of Pediatric Osteopathy, based on Dr. Frymann's teachings, which enables physicians and health providers to evaluate the appropriate role of Pediatric Osteopathy, as complementary medicine, from both a traditional and scientific perspective.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon course completion, participants should be able to:

1. Describe the framework of Pediatric Osteopathy as practiced by Dr. Frymann and developed at the OCC as a complete mind-body-spirit healing system;
2. Describe how disordered body structure and strains within the dural and cerebrospinal system influence physical health and illness in children, including neurotransmitter, endocrine and immune changes;
3. Practice and recognize the role of cranial osteopathy and integrative pediatrics, in addressing the special needs of children;
4. Discuss the use of sensory input for healing, incl. the mechanisms behind their actions;
5. Describe the importance of healthy eating in prevention and management of common pediatric conditions, based on the work of Dr. Frymann;
6. Identify key nutritional strategies taught by Dr. Frymann, including use of nutritional and plant-based medicine, their indications, side effects, interactions and contraindications as well as evidence-based research; and
7. Utilize a detailed Osteopathic trauma/ irritant exposure history to formulate an individualized patient care treatment program that integrates osteopathic interventions such as diet (nutrition), manipulative treatment, play time, daily routine and practical integrative techniques for prevention and in the management of common medical conditions in the pediatric population.
